

Abstract: Miller(1977) or Harrison and Kreps(1978) show asset price is higher in heterogeneous model than common prior model. They assume no budget constraint or no limitation of financial market. Recent study explore the role of financial technology in heterogeneous belief model. In this paper, I show that some financial technology make the asset price as high as Harrison and Kreps. Key technology is securitization and especially loan backed security.